1. This is the second book in the series. Did you read the first? If you didn't, did you feel lost at all discovering Courtney's history?
2. Courtney is good friends with her friend's mother. Do you have relationships with parents of your friends? Did you enjoy this relationship?
3. Have you ever seen women go at it tooth and nail? Would there have been a better way to settle a dispute with Lana? She certainly was always itching for a fight. Do you know anyone like this?
4. Fiona has a little more freedom in this book, always for a good cause and not for socializing. How do you think she's handling that freedom?
5. Did you believe Wanda was guilty? Have you ever known someone who sleepwalked?
6. At the shop, Courtney gives all sorts of fairy garden building classes. When she does, can you visualize yourself making a fairy garden?
7. There were a lot of clues that Courtney noticed at the crime scene? Do you like detecting them along with her? Did any of them give you pause or give you a clue as to who the real culprit was?
8. Brady and Courtney are becoming friendlier. What did you think of her inviting him over to see her greenhouse?
9. How did you feel about Fiona and Zephyr helping to find Tish's missing daughter? Have you ever known someone who joined a cult?
10. How did you like reading about a real town and not a fictional town? Was there enough description to help you imagine the locations?
